

3 Ways to donate life insurance to a charity

The Benefits

Tax Benefits

Depending on how you structure your policy, you will enjoy tax benefits during your lifetime or in your estate.

Make a large impact with a small gift today

Using life insurance allows you to make a sizable gift and an effective way to help your favourite charity achieve their long-term goals.

Enjoy your donation now

You can become a major donor today, rather than having to wait years to make your gift in the future.

How it works

There are several ways to use of life insurance for your charitable goals:

- 1. Transfer an existing life insurance policy to the charity of your choice and receive a tax receipt today for the cash value, plus future premiums.
- 2. Apply for a new life insurance policy and make your charity the owner. You will receive a tax receipt for the premiums you pay now and in the future.
- 3. Make your charity the beneficiary of a life insurance policy. This option gives you no immediate tax benefits, but your estate will receive a tax receipt for the death benefit, significantly reducing your estate tax. You can change your beneficiary at any time should your goals change.
